

IT WANTS YOU TO STAY

START HERE / KEYBOARD + MOUSE

The building is waiting.

A short guide to exploring, photographing and surviving It wants you to stay. The story is yours to discover.

DESCENT

Follow the story through eleven floors. Photograph unnatural subjects, find the next elevator, and watch the recordings left behind. Creatures and blackouts threaten your progress.

WANDER

Explore the eleven worlds freely, without pursuing enemies. Use the floor keys to move between environments and take your time with the building.

WHEN THE LIGHTS FAIL, STAND STILL.

In Descent, stop moving during a blackout. Wait for the lights to return before continuing.

Before starting: open Settings to choose your mouse sensitivity, field of view, head bob, subtitles and visual effects. You can pause and revisit these options during play.

MAKE YOUR WAY DOWN

DESCENT / PHOTOGRAPHS, RECORDINGS AND LIGHT

01 DOCUMENT THE UNNATURAL

Raise the camera with C, frame something that does not belong, and press Space. The on-screen evidence counter shows your progress. Ordinary scenery and repeat photographs can still be kept in your album, but repeating the same subject does not earn new evidence.

02 FOLLOW THE RECORDINGS

Find the objective elevator room and use its television. Complete the recording to unlock the lift. Esc pauses playback. Follow the on-screen E prompt: an unfinished recording stops and rewinds; a recording you have already completed can be skipped.

03 KEEP LIGHT IN RESERVE

Use F to switch on the flashlight and aim its beam at an approaching creature. The battery is limited and does not refill by itself. Look for the blue-lit charging stations and interact with E. Charging takes time; stay alert. You can interrupt it and retain the charge already gained.

04 PAUSE. THEN CONTINUE.

Esc pauses play. Continue resumes your saved Descent checkpoint in the same building. Documented evidence, completed objective recordings and the current run's album survive death and Continue. You may return at an arrival elevator rather than your exact last position.

A NEW DESCENT IS A NEW BUILDING.

New Descent and Restart Descent begin again from the first floor and reset the current run's progress.
